

“I had a crazy dream.
That robots could clean our sewers.”

Sanitation workers

climb into sewage chambers every day, breathing poison and dying before 40.

After college, I could've built the next big app, but I dreamt of building a robotic arm that could go where no human should. Kotak believed in my conviction and backed it with guidance and access to new opportunities, helping me take it from a little workshop to a nation-level operation.

Today, our robotic arm has been used to replace over 1,000 manual interventions across India.
